AGENCY360

AGENCY360 establishes a scholarship program to reward and celebrate the efforts of GirlVentures.

San Francisco, December 8, 2010 – AGENCY360, a wholly women-owned recruiting Firm in the Financial district kick started the holiday season with a festive soiree benefiting GirlVentures. For the second year, AGENCY360 set up a scholarship fund to support a middle school student take advantage of the summer camp programs at GirlVentures. The event was held at Xanadu Gallery, the only Franklin Lloyd Wright Building where guests who consisted of the agency's fortune 500 clients enjoyed scrumptious food catered by Taste and showed their support for GirlVentures. AGENCY360 also introduced their newly joined associates to their clients.

"It has been our commitment since we started agency360 to give back to our community and support causes that are focused on enhancement of the lives of many under-privileged women. The mission of these not-for-profit organizations we have chosen to support is to help this much-neglected segment of our society further their education, empower them through mentorship programs and guide them toward improvement of their social skills so that they can become contributing members of the society." Said Katherine Yee – Founder and CEO of AGENCY360.
